FREEDOM III TIPS, FACTS, AND COMMONLY ASKED QUESTIONS:

THE FREEDOM III:

- Is available in either the manual crank model or 12 Volt electric models.
- You must purchase the 12 Volt model complete. The manual model cannot be up-graded to the electric model at a later date.
- Full or partial extension gives you flexibility in tight spots.
- Is available in standard vinyl & acrylic colors and also custom Sunbrella fabrics.
- Custom colored case is now available in either Champagne or Pewter.
- When fully extended the lead rail to ground measurement is approximately 7' 6".

MEASURING TIPS:

- All measurements are the actual length of the case, end-to-end, including the end caps. Fabric will measure 8 ½" less than the overall case measurement.
- The case measures 3 3/8" wide by 5 3/8" tall.
- The bottom bracket measures 1 3/8" wide by 2 1/8" tall.

MOUNTING:

- The ideal mounting location for the bottom leg bracket is 30" to 38" below the bottom of the case. The brackets can, however, mount up to 60" below the bottom of the case.
- The Freedom III can mount with either awning rail or with special mounting adapter brackets. Standard flat adapter brackets are supplied with the awning. Optional van adapter brackets are available for select applications.
- Due to the weight of the awning, adequate support is required behind either the awning rail or the mounting brackets.
- For 2003 and older Rialta applications, no mounting brackets required. For 2004 and newer, the Freedom III cannot be used for Rialta applications.
